AUDITORIUM.

Announcement...

The Normal School will hereafter be in session throughout the calendar year, with three terms of sixteen weeks each, beginning February 1st, June 1st, and October 1st.

All the subjects of the course will be given every term, and students may enter any time of the year.

The summer term, June 1st to September 16th, is maintained for the benefit of untrained teachers who wish to secure professional training without sacrificing their engagements, and for mature students who desire to complete the training course in the shortest time possible.

The model school is in session during the summer, and every opportunity for observing expert teaching in the grades and for doing practice teaching is afforded in summer as well as in the fall and spring terms.

The summer term gives the same credit toward graduation as the other terms. Teachers who have good scholarship should be able to complete the training course in two or three terms.

STATE NORMAL SCHOOL.

The Normal School was established by the General Assembly, July 7th, 1884. By the State Board of Education it was located at Natchitoches the same year. The buildings and grounds of the Convent of the Sacred Heart were bought by the town and parish of Natchitoches and given to the school. The first session began November 1st, 1885.

Purpose of the School.

The act of establishment declares that the Normal School shall be maintained "for the benefit of such white persons of either sex as may desire and intend to teach in the public schools of Louisiana." The school, therefore, has a single function in the economy of the State, to train teachers for the schools of Louisiana.

Course of Study.

There is but one course of study offered, the teachers' training course. It covers a period of thirty-two months, divided into eight terms of four months each. Students are admitted to this course at any point in it for which they are properly prepared. Those who are well grounded in the common school studies, English, arithmetic, geography and U. S. History, can enter at the beginning of the course, and should be able to complete it in eight terms or less. Students having better scholarship may enter at a higher point in the course and complete it in correspondingly less time.

The work of the school is done in two departments: In the Normal School students acquire scholarship and knowledge of principles and theories of education, and in the Model School they acquire technical skill and experience in teaching.

The order of studies is given below. Considerable latitude is allowed as to the time at which the various subjects are taken. And students wishing to give special attention to primary teaching, music, science, drawing, gymnastics, bookkeeping, stenography or any other subject of the course, may arrange to do so and receive full credit toward graduation.

First Term—English Grammar, Civil Government, Arithmetic, Physiology, Singing, Drawing.

Second Term—English Grammar, Greek and Roman History, Algebra, Botany, Singing, Drawing.

Third Term—English History, Latin, French or Spanish, Algebra, Plane Geometry, Zoology, Singing, Drawing.

Fourth Term—English Literature, Latin, French or Spanish, Algebra, Bookkeeping, Commercial Arithmetic, Singing, Drawing.

Fifth Term—American Literature, Latin, French or Spanish, Physiology, Solid Geometry, Biology, Singing, Drawing.

Sixth Term—History of Education, Latin, French or Spanish, Psychology, Physics, English, Singing, Drawing.

Seventh Term—Pedagogy, Practice Teaching, Latin, French or Spanish, Chemistry, Laboratory Psychology, Drawing and Water Color, Singing and History of Music.

Eighth Term—School Administration, Practice Teaching, Latin, French or Spanish, Sociology, English Discourse, Drawing and Historic Ornament, Kindergarten Music.

Credits.

Four months satisfactory study of any subject in the course earns one credit. Capable students usually earn five credits in a term.

For singing, drawing, piano, violin, laboratory psychology, and laboratory course in biology or chemistry, or any other course requiring but two hours a week, a half credit is given.

Forty credits are required for graduation; of these, twenty-eight are prescribed for all students, and twelve are chosen by the student.

The prescribed subjects with the number of credits required in each, are as follows:

- English, 6
- Mathematics, 6
- Pedagogy, 6
- Science, 2.
- History, 2.
- Singing, 2.
- Drawing, 2.
- Latin, 2.

The following, with the number of credits that may be earned in each subject, are optional:

- Latin, 4.
- French, 6.
- Spanish, 6
- English, 2.
- Mathematics, 2.
- Gymnastics, 2.
- Violin, 8 terms, 4 credits.
- Piano, 8 terms, 4 credits.
- Experimental Psychology, 1.
- Sociology, 1.
- Drawing and Water Color, 2.
- Singing, 2.
- Cadet Teaching, 6.
- Stenography, 2.
- Typewriting 1.

A student may take more than forty credits within the term of his attendance; but no one can be graduated with fewer than forty.

No optional subject can be accepted in place of a required subject.

Admission Credits.

Applicants holding valid first grade teachers' certificates, receive twenty credits on admission.

Graduates of accredited high schools receive twenty credits on admission.

Applicants holding valid second grade certificates receive ten credits on admission.

Terms of Admission.

1. General. The Normal School receives white students. Girls may enter at the age of 15, young men at 16.

2. Health. Every applicant must present evidence of good health. No person with consumption or other contagious disease will be admitted.

Persons in a low state of health, those of frail physique or physical deformity, and those who have defective eyesight or impaired hearing, are advised not to undertake the course.

No one recently exposed to scarlet or yellow fever, diphtheria, smallpox, or measles, will be admitted without certificate from the Parish Health Officer.

3. Character. Applicants must present satisfactory evidence of good character, parish certificates of recent date, letters of introduction from Parish Superintendents, or personal letters from well known and responsible citizens.

4. Scholarship. Applicants must give evidence of sufficient scholarship to do work required at that point in the course at which they wish to enter.

(a) A third grade certificate will admit its holder to the first term of the course, with condition in English. In the case of French-speaking students, one year is allowed to make up this condition.

(b) Examination for admission to the first year of the course includes arithmetic, geography, English grammar and United States history.

(c) By examination an applicant may earn any number of credits, and thus enter the course at any point for which he is prepared.

(d) Receiving more than thirty credits on entrance examination does not affect the requirement that two full terms of four months each of resident study are necessary for graduation.

(e) Graduates of the State University, of Tulane University, or of any other institution whose diploma is warrant of thorough scholarship, can complete the training course in two terms of four months each.

5. The pledge. Every student receiving free tuition promises to teach for one full year after graduation. Students who do not take the pledge pay a tuition fee of $20 a term, $160 for the course.

Students from other States have the same privilege as Louisiana students, after taking the pledge or paying tuition.

EAST DORMITORIES.

The Pledge.

I, Lucile F. Anderson, of Opelousas, Parish of St. Landry, declare my full intention to attend the State Normal School of Louisiana until graduated, unless unavoidably prevented, and to teach in the public schools of Louisiana for at least one year after graduation.

(Signed) LUCILE F. ANDERSON.

Natchitoches, La., February 4th, 1902.

The pledge is not construed to require continuous attendance. Many of the best teachers the Normal School has sent out have attended only one or two terms at a time, finding it necessary to be absent for one or several terms to earn money for the remainder of the course.

Honorable release from the obligation may be obtained from the President, on account of—

1. Failing health or eyesight;
2. Inability to do the required work;
3. Pecuniary necessity; or
4. Domestic misfortune.

Graduation.

The requirements for graduation are two: 1st, The satisfactory completion of the course of study, earning forty credits; and 2nd, The development of a satisfactory degree of skill in teaching and control. These are equally indispensable; no amount of scholarship can be accepted in place of teaching power; and no facility in teaching can atone for lack of scholarship.

On completing the course of study and developing a satisfactory degree of skill in teaching and in control, the student is granted a diploma, which, according to the laws of the State, "shall entitle its holder to a first grade teacher's certificate, valid in any parish in the State for four years from the date of graduation, at the expiration of which time it may be renewed by the Board of Administrators, upon satisfactory evidence of the success, progress and good character of the teacher making application for renewal. Furthermore, the diploma of the State Normal School shall entitle its holder to such degree of preference in the selection of teachers for the public schools of the State as may be deemed wise and expedient by the State Board of Education."

The diploma of the Normal School has also been accepted in the States of Texas, California, Arkansas and Mississippi. Such acceptance, however, is not required by the regulations of those States, but is extended as a courtesy to the trained teacher.

Three classes are graduated each year, at the end of January, May and September. The commencement is in May, and diplomas for all three classes are given at that time.

The Graduates.

Within the eighteen years of its existence, the Normal School has graduated five hundred and forty-two trained teachers. Of this number all have discharged their obligation to teach, except four young ladies who married without fulfilling their pledge, and one who died before her school engagement was to begin.

Of the four hundred and sixty-five women graduates, one hundred and twenty-five have married, three hundred and two are teaching, twenty-seven have gone into other callings, and eight are dead.

Of the seventy-seven men graduated, fifty-one are teaching, twenty-five have gone into other business, and one is dead.

Demand for Trained Teachers.

The demand for graduates of the Normal School has been steadily increasing with the popular demand for better teaching in the public schools. Several years ago it reached the point where every graduate could be sure of finding an inviting field of labor as soon as the course of training was completed.

For two or three years this demand for trained teachers has increased so rapidly that the school has not been able to supply as many teachers as have been called for.

Many new schools have been opened in the towns and parishes, and a considerable part of the number have called for trained teachers; some parishes have made large drafts on the Normal School's graduate list, to fill the places of teachers eliminated from the corps by the increased requirements for parish certificates; and several Parish Boards have adopted the fixed plan of filling all vacancies in their teaching corps, with graduates of the Normal School. All these agencies, together with the popular interest in the schools, may be expected to increase for years to come, under the wholesome effect of the educational provisions of the new Constitution. And it is safe to assume that the number of trained teachers required to recruit the teaching forces of the towns and parishes will be greater from year to year.

Teaching as a Business.

There is no field more inviting than the public school service; and at this time there is no demand more insistent than this demand for able teachers.

While there is general complaint that the professions are already crowded, and the chances of success correspondingly reduced, the business of teaching offers immediate and permanent employment to young men and women who have the scholarship and specific training required and the personal force that is as indispensable as scholarship or technical training.

The schools of Louisiana require four thousand teachers. The average term of service is four years; so that a thousand new teachers are needed every year.

In the past nearly all the new teachers were recruited from local sources, the church schools, private schools and many of the rural schools supplying candidates for the teacher's position; and young men preparing for the ministry, the practice of law or medicine, were drafted into the teaching corps to meet the demand for new teachers.

But within the past few years, there has come an increasing recognition of the value of trained teachers, and the consequent demand for graduates of the training schools.

Besides the calls from Louisiana, there have been numerous requests from adjoining States, and from Central America, the West Indies and the Philippines, the latter being for Spanish-speaking teachers.

Under the impulse given by the new Constitution of Louisiana, the school system of the State has made astonishing progress within four years. Excellent school houses have been built, and many more are now building; special school taxes (prohibited by the former Constitution) have been voted by towns, wards, districts and entire parishes; skilled supervision has been made possible by removal of the restriction upon salary of Parish Superintendent; modern text-books have been placed in all the schools by the State Board of Education; and the General Assembly has made the largest appropriation for the public school fund ever made by any Southern State—$450,000 a year.

With new buildings, abundant revenues, competent supervision, sound courses of study, modern text-books and widespread popular interest in the public schools, there will be corresponding demand for trained teachers at suitable salaries. And there is an inviting field in the public school service for the strongest and worthiest young men and women of the State.

The Normal Training.

The Normal School is maintained for the sole purpose of training teachers, and all its resources are applied to this purpose. Its relation to the public school system was described by President Thos. D. Boyd as "the keynote of the arch of public education in Louisiana." By President Z. X. Snyder, of Colorado, it has been called "the heart of the public school system."

The three indispensable qualifications of the successful teacher are personal force, scholarship and skill. The first includes physical vigor, intelligence, industry, and, in brief, wholesome personality; it means the same as to say of a man that he is sound in body, sane in mind, strong in spirit and vigorous in action. The qualifications of scholarship and technical skill may be acquired, and it is the function of the Normal School to give both where both are needed, and to give teaching skill where sufficient scholarship already exists, or scholarship to those who are gifted with teaching power.

Unless fairly endowed with the first of these qualifications, it is unwise for a young man or woman to undertake the business of teaching; native force is the only foundation upon which sound scholarship and true teaching skill may be built with certainty. Indolent, morbid, flighty or weakly young people will in all probability meet with insuperable difficulties in the course of training, and even if successful in passing through the course would only find disappointment upon entering the field of actual school work.

But for those who are possessed of vigorous health, happy spirits, active habits and good intelligence, the work in the course of training will prove a constant inspiration and pleasure and success in the business of teaching, together with prompt recognition and adequate reward, will certainly follow. In the words of Superintendent Hill, of Massachusetts: "You have no just claim to be employed as teacher, except that which fitness gives you; other claims than fitness no School Board has a moral right to consider. But if you have that fitness, there is not only room for you—there is a pressing demand for you—in the schools of the State."

United States Commissioner of Education, W. T. Harris, says: "The pivotal question after all, in discussing this matter of the schools of America, is the question of the teacher. And this question of the learning, skill, and personal power of the teacher, will find its way into all the schools and the minds of the people as easily and naturally as the sunshine finds its way into every nook of the landscape."

THE NORMAL COURSE.

Pedagogy.

History of Education—Miss Morris.

Sixth Term—The text-book is Painter's History. A study of the educational systems and methods of ancient, mediæval and modern nations; study of the life and theories of the educational reformers; a review of the rise, progress and growth of education in United States and in the State of Louisiana. The experiences of distinguished educators, those who have given definite impulse to educational movements, are studied with regard to their controlling motives, and to differentiate the essential from the incidental features of such movements. A thesis on this subject is required, a study of the life of some important teacher and his contribution to the science of education.

Descriptive Psychology—Mr. Pickels.

Sixth Term—James' Briefer Course is the text in use. The work begins with a careful review of the physiology and anatomy of the nervous system. Heads of oxen and sheep are dissected in class; the cortex is studied in detail and its regions of known functions located. Observations on the ganglia; study of the peripheral organs—especially the eye—and their relations to cortical and ganglionic centres. Brain functions, reaction to sensory stimuli, mode, range, duration and intensity. The study of habit and instinct.

The study of mind proper and of specific functions. Consciousness, attributes of personality, objective and subjective. The study of intellectual processes, with preliminary view of the will and of conception. A brief study of the origin of the idea of time, and of the phenomena of memory and imagination.

The study of sensation, illusions. Reason and judgment as related to what precedes. The emotions, the instincts and the will are studied in the order named and occupy a relatively large share of the work.

Laboratory Psychology—Mr. Pickels.

A well-equipped laboratory for the study of experimental psychology has been fitted up this year, and much of the work in both descriptive and applied psychology is illustrated and supplemented by use of delicate and accurate apparatus. There is also opportunity for extended laboratory work on the part of students who wish to make a special study of this subject.

Methods—Mr. Keeny.

Seventh and Eighth Terms—For the seventh term, McMurry's General Method and the Method of the Recitation are used; for the eighth term, Hinsdale's Art of Study and Dexter & Garlic's Psychology for the School-room.

As the principles of education are learned in class, the student has opportunity to observe their application in the model school and to test them in his own practice teaching. Most of the seventh term's work is devoted to discussion of the problems arising from the experience of the students in the practice school.

For the eighth term, the broader generalizations of the science of education are studied, and the student learns to apply the principles of psychology to the work of teaching.

School Administration and Supervision—Mr. Keeny.

Seventh Term—This is a course of lectures, and round table discussions on practical administration as observed in cities, villages and the country school districts. The course discusses matters of school organization and management, school revenues and expenditures, the function of state, parish and local boards and their several prerogatives. The purposes and means of school supervision are studied with great care. The student is directed to read Spencer's Education, Report of the Committee of Fifteen, School Sanitation and Decoration, and other modern and material contributions to this subject. Reports upon the readings are made in class and discussed by teacher and student.

The philosophy of government and of administration is considered with special regard to the conditions that exist in Louisiana at this time. School house construction and sanitation also receive due consideration.

Practical Teaching—Mr. Keeny.

After observation of the work of expert teachers and the study of psychology and history of education for one term, the student begins his practice teaching in the model school. The observation is done during the sixth term. After each visit to one of the grades of the model school the students report upon the work observed, and discuss the mode of presentation and the results obtained.

The practice teaching begins with the seventh term. Students are assigned by the principal of the training school to the several grades, in which they give one lesson daily under direction of the grade teacher in charge. The subject to be taught is assigned by the grade teacher, with general suggestions as to its preparation. The student then prepares a lesson scheme for four weeks' work, giving a detailed account of the subjects to be taught, mode of presentation, means of illustration and tests of the child's comprehension. This paper is submitted to the grade teacher, who examines and criticises it. No lesson is given that has not been approved by the grade teacher in charge of the grade to which it is to be given. When the student has shown the required skill in teaching this class another subject is assigned. The practice teaching continues two hours each day, and all students of the seventh and eighth terms are required to teach at least two weeks in every grade.

The critique which is devoted to a criticism of the day's lesson, is held at the close of the daily session. It is conducted by the grade teachers of the model school, the training teacher, and the members of the practice class who have observed the several lessons. Each lesson is exhaustively discussed, the strong points commended and the weak ones frankly pointed out, with suggestions for amending the faults observed. Once each week the whole training class is assembled by the principal of the training school, and general criticisms upon the work of the week are made by the grade teachers, the training teacher and the president.

Natural Science.

Physiography—Mr. Williamson.

First Term—Davis' text-book is used. Study of the earth as a sphere; experiments on relation of air and water; geological formation and topographical study of Natchitoches and vicinity; observation of barometer and thermometer, direction and force of winds, rainfall and clouds; distribution of plants and animals, with check lists of those found in this locality and in this State. Collection of rocks, minerals and fossils, and exchange with collectors in other sections.

Botany—Mr. Williamson.

Secoend Term—Bergen's text-book is used. The study of germination and growth of seedlings; records of observations made by each student. Microscopic study of tissues; the study of roots and leaves, their relations to soil, air and sunlight, and their several functions. The study of floral structure, organs of the flower, pollination and fertilization. The identification of plants by means of a manual. The relation of plants to agriculture. Methods of teaching elementary agriculture in the public schools.

Zoology—Mr. Williamson.

Packard's Briefer Course is the text-book in use. The study of type forms; dissection of crayfish and fresh-water clam. Dissection of a vertebrate, rat, rabbit, or chicken; comparative study of structure of vertebrate and invertebrate. Microscopic study of protozoans, amœba, vorticella; the study of sponges and fresh-water hydra; earth worms and leeches; star fishes. Classification of arthropods; dissection and mounting of locust and butterflies. Classification of vertebrates; study of live fishes, and of alcoholic specimens. Students are encouraged to take up the investigation of some group of animals, and are guided in their studies and in making collections, by the teacher in charge. Colton's Zoology is used in the dissecting room.

Physiology—Mr. Williamson.

Fifth Term—Martin's Human Body is the text in use. The course laid down in the text-book is followed pretty closely. Abundant materials from the slaughter house are provided and students are required to dissect heart, lungs, liver, kidneys, eye and brain. Two weeks are given to the study of foods and many illustrative experiments are made by students in and out of the class. Every student uses the microscope and is taught to prepare the slide and simple mechanical devices to illustrate physiological phenomena. The last month of the term is devoted to the study of the brain and the nerves. Brains of many animals are dissected, and specimens preserved in alcohol or formalin are studied in detail.

Physics—Mr. Pickels.

Sixth Term—Gravitation, adhesion, cohesion, with resultant phenomena of common occurrence, are studied experimentally in the order named. In like manner the dynamics of fluids under varying forms of stress; density, specific density, and specific gravity; momentum and force; Newton's three laws; bodies free to fall; curvilinear motion; the pendulum. The fundamental formulas for work and energy, and easy applications.

Heat as a mode of motion; temperature and quantity; thermometry; conversion into molar motion; absorption of heat.

Sound; the wave theory; pitch and quality; composition of sound waves; musical instruments.

Light as radiant energy; general properties and laws; photometry; reflection; refraction; prisms and lenses; spectra and color.

The course concludes with a series of experiments, presenting such phenomena of electro-statics and electro-kinetics as are easily learned and of practical importance. Gage's Introduction is the text-book in use.

After the required four-months' study of physics, the student may elect to do four months of individual experimental work in the laboratory, for which he will receive due credit toward graduation.

Chemistry—Mr. Pickels.

Seventh Term—Experiments with oxygen; combination with solids, sulphur, carbon, iron, phosphorus. A similar series of experiments with nitrogen, hydrogen, and the halogens. Tests for the presence of each of these elements are made and recorded by the students.

The use of chemical symbols; affinity, valence and the chemical equation.

Study of the acids; theory of atomic weight and volume. Separation and identification of the principal metals, usually two from each group.

The course concludes with qualitative analysis of several solids and mineral waters. Williams' text-book is used.

After the introductory term's study of chemistry, the student may elect to do four months' work in qualitative analysis in the laboratory, for which due credit will be given.

Mathematics.

Mathematics—Mr. Caldwell.

First Term—Prince's Arithmetic, Books VII and VIII; Review of fundamental operations; analysis of simple typical problems; denominate numbers; common and decimal fractions; common commercial processes of calculation, interest, discount and percentage; ratio, proportion and mensuration.

Second Term—Thorough review of the fundamental and commercial operations, interpreted from the new standpoint the student has acquired by the study of Algebra and Geometry.

Algebra—Miss Bookwalter.

Second Term—Wentworth's First Steps is the text-book. The first effort is to generalize arithmetical operations; the second to develop the equation as a means of studying the relations of quantities. The matter of the text-book is supplemented by work taken from the arithmetics and problems brought to the class by students.

Third and Fourth Terms—Wentworth's New School Algebra; review of processes learned in previous year; study of the higher equations, the elements of inequalities, zero and infinity; progressions and logarithms.

THE COTTAGE.

Geometry—Miss Bookwalter.

Second Term—Campbell's Observational Geometry. Preparatory exercises, mainly constructional, to develop perception of mathematical relations; inventional proofs of simple propositions; arithmetical solutions of problems involving space relations; drawing to scale.

Third Term—Wentworth's Plane Geometry. In addition to the work furnished by the text-book, constructive demonstrations are made; original solutions of simple problems are required, and practical demonstrations given of the more familiar principles used in mechanics and surveying.

Fifth Term—Wentworth's Solid Geometry. Review of terms used and principles acquired in preceding year's work; study of solid geometry, three books.

Bookkeeping—Miss Bookwalter.

Fourth Term—No text-book is used. Analysis of a business transaction, the conditions requiring a record of it. Study of original entries; use of daybook and cashbook; uses of ledger; special column books to facilitate grouping of entries; invoices, sales book, special property accounts. The study and drawing of business forms, bills, drafts, checks, account sales and statements. Summary of results, balance sheets and exhibits.

History and Civics.Civil Government—Miss Morris.

First Term—United States History and History of Louisiana, which are required for admission to the normal course, are briefly reviewed at the beginning of the term. From this standpoint the subject of civil government is taken up and studied for three and a half months. The text-book is Fiske's. Special attention is given to the government of Louisiana. Students visit the courts, election booths and offices of the various parish officers, the duties of each are discussed in class and compared with other offices, municipal or national, of like character.

History—Miss Morris.

Second Term—The study of ancient history begins with the early civilization of the Nile and Tigro-Euphrates valleys. This is followed by the History of Greece and Rome. After this the leading events of mediæval history are taken up. Special emphasis is placed upon religious principles and political institutions of the nations studied, their progress in the arts and sciences, and their relations to one another.

Third Term—The next term is given to the History of England. Effort is concentrated upon a few important formative periods. Selections from masterpieces of literature are studied in connection with these periods. Myer's General History and Montgomery's Leading Facts are the text-books used by the students.

Language and Literature.

English—Mrs. M'Voy.

First Term—Principles of English Grammar; daily written exercises furnishing practice in principles as they are mastered; thorough study of syntax; drill in punctuation, capitalization, construction of sentences and sentence analysis. Buehler's English Grammar is the text-book.

Second Term—Study of technical grammar continued. Written exercises include letters, paragraphs for newspapers, simple descriptive and narrative papers, stories, accounts of adventure and travel, and book reviews. Same text-book.

Eighth Term—Tompkins' Science of Discourse is the text-book. Extended analysis of type-forms of composition is made, and original exercises illustrating these forms are required. Masterpieces are used for models and as the standards by which the student judges his own work.

Literature—Mrs. M'Voy, Miss Morris.

Fourth and Fifth Terms—The work in literature is mainly the study of whole masterpieces. It begins with the study of contemporary literature, tracing the development of literature as the expression of the life and thought of a people. The selections vary from term to term. The books are read in class and discussed by teacher and students; summaries and criticisms are prepared by the students, read and discussed in class. The following list of books used last year will show the scope of the work:

Brooks' Primer of English Literature.

Ruskin—Sesame and Lilies.

Coleridge—Ancient Mariner.

Wordsworth—Intimations of Immortality.

Byron—Prisoner of Chillon, Child Harold, and other poems.

Organ, Guitar, Mandolin—Mr. Bucklin.

Special courses for individual students in these subjects will be given by Mr. Bucklin.

The Modern School.

The new building is intended to serve as a model of sound and economical school house construction. Erected at a cost of $8500, and furnished at a cost of $1600, it affords ideal accommodation for four hundred pupils. In the matters of lighting, ventilation, heating, seating, arrangement of floor space, and convenience and comfort of pupil and teacher, it represents approved methods of construction, and sound economy.

School officers, teachers, parents, and others interested in school building, are invited to visit the model school and examine the details of its arrangement and construction.

The model school was planned to illustrate the entire course of study provided for the public schools of Louisiana, kindergarten, eight grades and four-year high school course. For the first session, the eight grades and two years of the high school course were maintained; for the current year these will be continued and another year of high school work will be added; next year the final year of the high school course will be added.

The model school offers a continuous and well-articulated course of instruction from the kindergarten to the point where the pupil is ready for admission to the University or professional school.

The subject matter chosen for study, the methods of teaching, the books and material used, and the apparatus for illustration are the best and most modern obtainable.

The school is a public school, wholly supported by the State, and is open to pupils from any part of Louisiana.

The pupils of the model school are under the instruction and control of trained teachers for the entire school day. For two periods of the daily programme the lessons are given by practice teachers of the fourth year classes of the normal school. These lessons are prepared under the direction of the training teacher, and given under the personal supervision of training teacher and the grade teacher in charge; and this teaching is uniformly sound and successful, as no lesson can be presented to a class until it has received the approval of the training teacher who is responsible for that class.

New classes are formed in the model school at the beginning of each term, October 1st, February 1st and June 1st. Applicants for admission to the model school must present themselves within two weeks from the beginning of the term.

Miscellaneous Information.

Location.

The Normal School is located at Natchitoches, a little northwest of the centre of the State. The grounds adjoin the southern limits of the town, about three-quarters of a mile from the courthouse and the churches.

Natchitoches is on the Texas and Pacific Railway, a hundred and fifty miles northwest of Baton Rouge and one hundred miles southeast of Shreveport.

The railway station is on the Normal School property, about four hundred yards from the school buildings. The railway company has just completed a new station, which is one of the handsomest in the State.

The town of Natchitoches is a place of about three thousand inhabitants, and is full of historic interest. It is over two hundred years old, being, next to Santa Fé, the oldest Spanish settlement in the Southwest.

The community is an admirable one, cordial in its good will toward the Normal School and ready to promote its interests in every way and to co-operate with the school authorities in providing for the comfort and welfare of the students.

The school is fortunate in its location; the site is one of the most beautiful in the whole country; its healthfulness is as noteworthy as its beauty, and nowhere can a place be found where students are less affected by influences tending toward distraction from study.

The Grounds.

The Normal buildings stand upon a hill overlooking the valley of Cane river, one of the channels of Red river, the main channel of which is three miles away. The valley is one of the richest and most beautiful in the country. The elevated pine forest borders the valley, and the Normal School is located on an eminence where the pine hills verge upon the alluvial lands.

The grounds include one hundred and two acres; about fifty acres of lawn, with live oaks, pines, elms, magnolias, cypresses, cedars and china trees, with fine avenues of pines and chinas, and fifty acres of magnificent pine forest cleared of brush and set in grass. The front lawn borders upon Chaplin Lake, a beautiful sheet of clear water about a mile and a half long.

The grounds afford every facility for wholesome outdoor exercise, an excellent field, base ball grounds, two basket ball grounds, two tennis courts and numerous long walks.

The Buildings.

There are seven buildings besides the president's cottage. The Convent Building contains the library, the reception room, and the halls of the literary societies. The second and third floors of this building are devoted to living rooms of the Boarding Club.

The Normal Building contains the auditorium, with a seating capacity of 800, the laboratories of biology, physics, chemistry and psychology, the class rooms, art rooms, music rooms, the president's office, the cashier's office, and the general critique room.

The Model School Building, devoted altogether to the practice school, contains ten large grade rooms and ten small practice rooms. There are also ten hall and stairway nooks fitted for practice classes, so that the buildings gives space for thirty practice lessons at the same period.

The Matron's Building, the Dining Room Building and the New Dormitories are devoted entirely to the Ladies' Boarding Club.

The Cottage, situated about a hundred yards from the other buildings, is for the use of the president's family and the guests of the school.

The Library.

The normal library, a well-lighted room, convenient both to class room and study hall, contains over two thousand volumes, chiefly in the departments of pedagogy, history and literature.

The reading room receives the important daily and weekly papers of the State, a carefully selected list of teachers' journals, educational magazines, and all the leading literary magazines of the country. Students have access to the reading room throughout the day and on Saturdays and Sundays. Books to be taken home are issued by the librarian from three to five o'clock in the afternoon.

Each class room is supplied with a small library of reference books for use in the special subjects taught therein, and each model school room contains a library of stories, poems and books of science, travel and adventure, suitable for the pupils of the several grades.

Laboratories.

The laboratories of biology and of physics and chemistry and psychology are well equipped for individual experiment in those sciences. Microscopes and accessories, dissecting instruments, chemical materials, and physical and chemical apparatus, are supplied for the use of each student, and opportunities for laboratory work of a superior character are afforded.

Text-Books and Stationery.

The text-books in use are the latest and best in all departments and are frequently changed in order that students may have advantage of every advance that it made in the preparation of books of study. All text-books and stationery are kept in stock in the supply room and sold at cost. A full list of the texts in use for the current year is given at the back of the catalogue. Students are advised to bring with them all text-books they have relating to the subjects they are to study, and all reference books that might be of use in preparation of lessons.

Literary Societies.

There are three literary societies, the Seekers After Knowledge, the Eclectic Literary Society and the Modern Culture Club. They are known familiarly as the S. A. K., the E. L. S., and the M. C. C. Their meetings are held every Saturday night during the session, at 8 o'clock. Joint meetings of the three societies are held several times each session. At the close of the session there is a contest between the three societies in declamation, oratory, music, newspaper writing, parliamentary practice, and dramatic performance. At the last commencement the medal for oratory was awarded to Mr. C. A. Riddle, of the M. C. C. The medal for declamation was won by Miss Lillian Gibbs, of the S. A. K. The contest in parliamentary practice was won by the M. C. C.

Religious Influences.

The Normal School is a free, State school, and therefore under the control of no sect or denomination. It throws around its students, however, the most refined and enlightened moral influences, and seeks to develop the highest ethical and religious standards.

Students are encouraged to attend the services of the churches in town of which there are four having regular service—Methodist, Baptist, Catholic and Episcopal. All of these have earnest members in the faculty, and students of every faith have full opportunity to observe all the religious requirements of their several churches.

The Young Men's Christian Association has a strong organization among the young men of the Normal School, holding regular meetings on Sunday in the assembly room. The Young Ladies' Devotional Circle holds non-sectarian song and prayer service in one of the study halls or out on the shaded lawn every Sunday evening. The Catholic students have a branch of the Apostleship of Prayer, with regular devotions.

The King's Daughters have an active organization with periodical meetings.

The W. C. T. U. has a good organization with regular meetings.

The Comus Club.

The Comus Club of Natchitoches, composed of the business and professional men of the community, is a strong and unique organization; every form of vice is excluded from the club rooms.

The club gives periodical literary and social entertainments of a high order of merit, to which Normal students are invited, and the handsome quarters of the club are placed at the disposal of the students.

The Alby L. Smith Scholarship.

The alumni scholarship, established by the alumni association in June, 1897, is known as the Alby L. Smith Scholarship, in honor of the beloved training teacher under whom many of the graduates served their apprenticeship. The beneficiary is elected at the annual alumni meeting, and the entire expense of attendance is borne by the alumni association. The scholarship was first awarded for two years to Miss Annie Greene, of Tangipahoa parish. Miss May Lee, of East Baton Rouge parish, held the scholarship for two years, 1899-1901, and graduated last year. Miss Bertha Medlock, of Webster parish, was appointed by the alumni committee for the ensuing two years. At the recent meeting of the Alumni Association, Miss Olive Mather, of Rapides parish, was appointed.

Parish Beneficiary Scholarships.

The General Assembly of 1902 provided that the police jury of each parish may make appropriation for the maintenance of a beneficiary student at the Normal School. For a number of years several of the parishes have been sending beneficiary students without any express legal provision. It is now within the power of every parish to send such a beneficiary, the appointment to be made upon advice of the parish Superintendent or the School Board, by competitive examination, or in any other way the police jury may decide upon. The appropriation for each beneficiary student should be about $125.00 a year.

Special Students.

Students who wish to pursue special courses of study and those who are not willing to take the pledge to graduate and to teach one year after graduation, may be admitted to the regular classes of the Normal School on payment of the tuition fee. No special student will be admitted, however, to any class for which he is not properly prepared; and no person under the legal age can be admitted to the Normal School in any event. The choice of studies to be taken by special students must be approved by the president.

Graduate Students.

Graduates of the Normal School will be admitted at any time for the purpose of reviewing studies, attending lectures, observing the work of the model school, or making special preparations for some particular line of teaching.

Expenses.

Tuition is free to all students who pledge themselves to continue in school until graduated, and to teach in the public schools of Louisiana for at least one year after graduation.

Students pursuing special courses, and those who take the regular course, but do not promise to teach, pay a tuition fee of twenty dollars a term of four months.

Normal students pay an incidental fee of two dollars per term.

Pupils in the model school pay an incidental fee of one dollar per term.

Individual lessons in instrumental music and stenography are the only parts of the course offered for which there is any charge. For such lessons, students pay a fee of sixteen dollars a term of four months.

All fees are payable in advance. The incidental fee must be paid for a fractional term the same as for the full term.

The necessary expenses of a regular normal student are as follows:

Board, 16 weeks, at $3.00.....	$48 00
Washing	6 00
Books and stationery, about.....	6 00
Incidental fee	2 00

Total for term of 16 weeks.....$62 00

Students boarding in the club should have about $20.00 for the first month of the term, and about $15.00 for each succeeding month.

If instrumental music is taken, $36.00 will be needed for the first month of each term.

Regulations.

As should be the case in a school for training teachers, the discipline is simple, and the largest liberty consistent with good order and good work, is allowed.

Most of the students are training themselves at their own expense for the chosen work of their life, and most of them, too, are of mature age and accustomed to rational living. Such students require little control.

Students are expected to bear themselves with propriety both in and out of the Normal School, and to show such respect for order, morality, personal honor and the rights of others as is demanded of good citizens. Failure to do this will be sufficient ground for dismissing any student.

Absence without previous permission or valid excuse will forfeit the student's membership.

Continued irregularity of attendance, or neglect of duty, or unbecoming conduct will result in the dismissal of the student.

The conditions existing at the Normal School, the course of study, the professional training, the companionship of hundreds of young people engaged upon a common life work, the intimate contact with many strong teachers, the lectures and addresses given by scholarly men, the stimulating influence of the literary societies, the use of the library with its thousands of books and its fresh periodical literature, and the opportunity to hear good music and to see some of the great pictures and statuary—all these together give an environment that tends steadily and powerfully to elevate the student, to refine his tastes, quicken his sympathies and appreciation, deepen his love of learning, and set high standards of personal conduct.

The Boarding Club.

The Young Ladies' Boarding Club has been in successful operation for sixteen years. Organized as a co-operative club, it increased in membership and usefulness until it reached a point where it required a large part of the attention of the president of the school, and it has now been made one of the departments of the school.

The Boarding Club occupies five of the Normal buildings, affording accommodation for three hundred and fifty students.

There are 135 bedrooms, most of them arranged for two or four students, the rooms over the dining hall for three students, and the large convent rooms for five or six to the room.

The rooms are provided with white iron and brass beds, moss mattresses, metal washstands, bowls and pitchers, chairs, lamps or electric lights, and fire-places or stoves. Students provide their own pillows, blankets, bed linen, mosquito bars, towels and napkins. The beds are single, 3 feet 6 inches by 6 feet 6 inches, but are so nearly the same size as the ordinary double bed, 4 by 6 feet, that blankets and bed linen for double bed may be used.

Assignment of rooms will be made at the opening of the session. Applications for particular rooms are filed in the order they are received, and will be observed as far as possible in the assignment. Other things being equal, preference is given to those applicants who have been longest in club membership.

The Club is governed by the President of the Normal School, and receives his constant personal attention throughout the year. The young ladies are responsible to the matrons who are in charge of the dormitory buildings. The dining room service is directed by a skilful steward. The business affairs of the Club are managed by the cashier.

There is an Advisory Committee of seven Club members, six students and one teacher resident in the Club, that makes semi-weekly reports to the President, representing the Club membership and recommending such changes in service, fare, regulations or membership, as the membership may desire. The members of the Advisory Committee are elected semi-annually by the residents of each of the dormitories.

Every condition for the preservation of health and securing best opportunity for study exists at the Normal Club. The health record for sixteen years is an extremely happy one.

The beautiful Normal grounds are the private premises and recreation grounds of Club members after school closes in the afternoon.

There are nine bath rooms, supplied with full length porcelain-lined tubs, and hot and cold cistern water. There is also the water-supply from the city system, and an immense supply of salt water, equal to sea-water for bathing purposes, from the artesian well on the Normal grounds.

Club Rules.

1. No student can be admitted to the Club without agreeing to observe the rules established for the common good.

GRADUATES, MAY 1903.

2. Club members are required to conduct themselves with propriety and to show due regard for the rights of others.

3. Members are not permitted to leave the grounds without reporting to the matron both on leaving and returning.

4. On Wednesday afternoon, from 2:30 to 5 o'clock, Club members may go shopping or visiting in town.

5. On Sunday members may attend any day service at the churches. On Sunday night they may attend service when accompanied by one of the teachers or matrons.

6. No member will be permitted to spend the night away from the Normal Club; and requests from parents to this effect cannot be complied with.

7. Students boarding in the Club are not permitted to receive calls from gentlemen, except members of their own families.

8. Club members are not allowed to receive packages of food of any kind at any time of year, except fresh fruit. Meats, cakes, pastry, canned food, preserves, nuts and confectionery, are absolutely prohibited.

9. Medicines must not be kept in the bedrooms, except when prescribed by a physician. Narcotic or intoxicating medicines, morphine, laudanum, alcohol or any other poisonous substance must not be kept in students' rooms under any circumstances.

Such remedies as are needed for the simple ailments incident to student life are kept and dispensed by the matrons, and in any case of more serious need a competent physician is called. It is therefore unnecessary for students to bring or keep medicines of any character.

10. Every feature of the Club management and the daily life of its members rests on the assumption that the students are capable of self-control, and that they desire to preserve the interests and welfare of the Club. The largest possible liberty is therefore allowed, and cases of discipline are very rare. For any minor offense against the Club regulations or propriety, a student may be put "under arrest," which means forfeiture of privileges. For any grave violation of rules or of propriety, for continuous neglect of duty, or unbecoming conduct, the student will be dismissed.

Club Expenses.

The charge for board is twelve dollars, payable monthly in advance.

For less than a month, the charge is fifty cents a day.

For mothers or sisters of members, visiting them, one dollar a day.

This charge covers board, room, fuel, lights and service.

Students have their washing done by the laundries or the washerwoman of the town, at an average charge of $1.50 a month.

For medicine and attention in ordinary sickness, there is no charge. In cases of protracted sickness, students pay the fees of physician and special nurse, and for medicine prescribed.

Meal Hours.

Breakfast is served at eight o'clock; at half-past twelve, cold lunch with hot soup, chocolate and tea; dinner at five; and sandwiches at the close of the study hour at night. For the summer term, early coffee and rolls are served at 6:30; breakfast at 8:30; dinner at 1:00 and supper at 6:00.

No rising hour is prescribed, and students are advised to sleep as late as possible in the morning.

No negligé dress is permitted in the dining room.

General.

The cashier will receive deposits from Club members and pay money drawn against these deposits, on any day of the week, up to 5:00 in the evening. The Club becomes responsible for the safe keeping of deposits and losses are impossible.

Club members are, therefore, advised to deposit their money immediately after arrival, and money should never be kept in the bed-rooms.

All clothing, towels, napkins and bed linen should be marked with the owner's full name, not with initials only.

Trunks and hand bags should have the owner's name and address PAINTED on them, to guard against trouble or delay from error on the part of baggagemen.

The Boarding Club is open throughout the year, and students who wish to do so may remain in the Club through the spring and fall vacations, upon payment of the regular charge of three dollars a week.

Special Notice.

No person should come to the Normal School expecting to enter the Club without having made application in advance. For several years, the accommodations of the Club have been overtaxed, and unless application has been made in advance, a new student cannot be sure of finding a place in the dormitories.

After having made application and received notice that a place has been reserved, the new student should give notice to the President of the time and train that she expects to come on, so that there will be some one at the station to meet her.

Students from North Louisiana can come to Natchitoches by the Texas & Pacific direct from Shreveport or via Cypress as in the past, or by the Louisiana Railway via Campti, or, after November 1st, by the Louisiana & Northwest Railway from Gibsland and beyond. All these trains arrive in day time. From south Louisiana the day express on the Texas & Pacific gives the best service, except for those who come from the Southern Pacific and the Morgan road, who cannot make connection at Cheneyville, but come on the early morning train from Cheneyville.
